Daily Flash

Positive news from Europe on Spain's banking package and somewhat better-than-expected data outturns in China (see today's China Flash and below) lifted sentiment today. Stock markets across Asia rallied, led by the Hang Seng (+2.4%) and the Nikkei (+2.0%).

China indicators show growth moderation and scope for policy stimulus

The latest batch of monthly activity indicators for May, released over the weekend, show continuing growth moderation, with some outturns exceeding expectations. Indeed, the outturns were better than pessimists might have feared following last week's interest rate cut, which was taken by some observers as an indication that the data release would be on the weak side. Exports and imports both surprised to the upside. Importantly, inflation eased by more than expected, to 3.0% y/y in May (consensus: 3.2%; BBVA: 3.3%), providing room for further stimulus in the months ahead to support growth. We expect additional 100-150bps cuts in the RRR, and at least one more 25bp interest rate cut, most likely in Q3.

China's monetary and credit data picks up in May

Adding to the positive data releases over the weekend, the People's Bank of China (PBoC) today released monthly monetary and credit data for May. New RMB loans increased by a better-than-expected RMB 793 billion in May from RMB 682 billion of the previous month, well above the market consensus of RMB 700 billion. Aggregate social financing (a broader measure of credit growth which includes banks loans as well as other credit flows such as trust loans and bank acceptances) rose to RMB 1.14 trillion in May, 18.4% higher than last month. Although these indicators point to improved credit conditions, further policy easing is largely expected in order to spur growth.

Singapore's exports increase on strong demand from emerging markets

Singapore's non-oil domestic exports increased in May by 3.2% y/y (consensus: 3.0% y/y). While exports to both the US (-11.4% y/y) and the EU (1.5% y/y) remain weak, emerging market demand rebounded to +16.5% y/y, after contracting by -5.3% y/y the previous month. Singapore's exports are nevertheless expected to remain under pressure in the coming months due to sluggish conditions in the EU and US.

Briefly noted:

- S&P lowered India's sovereign credit rating outlook to negative from stable; putting India's investment grade status under pressure (India is currently rated BBBby S&P).
- Bank Indonesia holds its policy meeting tomorrow; we expect interest rates to remain on hold.
